

Vignobles Jonquieres d'Oriola Gris-Gris Rosé 2019 MAGNUM
Chateau Corneilla del Vercol

A deliciously light rosé from the Côtes du Roussillon made primarily from Grenache Gris grapes (that's why a wine can be called Gris) with a complement of Syrah.

The vineyards stand on soil with a lot of rocks and limestone that give a nice minerality to the wine. Combined with notes of red fruit from small wild strawberries and currants creates a delicious light rosé that can rightly be called a Provence killer. And all that for half the price.

Because of the warm temperatures in the south of France, the grapes are picked at night to prevent oxidation and the addition of a lot of sulfite is not necessary.

This wine should not be missing on terrace or garden this summer
