

Vignobles Jonqueres d'Oriola Gris-Gris Rosé 2020
Chateau Corneilla del Vercol

A deliciously light rosé from the Côtes du Roussillon made primarily from Grenache Gris grapes (that's why a wine can be called Gris) with a complement of Syrah.

The vineyards stand on soil with a lot of rocks and limestone that give a nice minerality to the wine. Combined with notes of red fruit from small wild strawberries and currants, a delicious light rosé is created that can rightly be called a Provence killer. And all that for half the price.

Because of the warm temperatures in southern France, the grapes are picked at night to prevent oxidation and the addition of a lot of sulfite is not necessary.

This wine should not be missed on the terrace or in the garden this summer.
